THE BRIESEN AIRFIELD (2 pp; German;

25X1

This document consists of a rough sketch showing the layout of the Briesen (Brand) airfield and a one-page report stating that construction of the airfield near Brand is being carried out speedily. Workers from Luebben are also employed there, and a workers' train brings them to the site every morning. The area is off limits to strangers and is being guarded by German guards.

The report states that the enclosed sketch is a rough one only, and it is not known how far north the airfield extends. It can also be expected that construction will be extended in a southerly direction, which will eliminate the Briesen-Wasserburg road. Workers believe that the field is meant for use by jet aircraft.

The airfield reportedly planned near Altenow has not yet materialized.
